Kubicek Balloons in 2020

How Coronavirus affected the factory

When the virus started to reach Europe the Czech authorities decided to implement measures to keep the country running but to protect people. One key mandatory law introduced was the wearing of masks in public.

The factory offered to assist in producing the shortfall of masks while factory output had dropped in several areas particularly the inflatable division.

Throughout the peak of the virus in the Czech Republic the factory remained open and in order to ensure the safety of the staff changes were made...

How Coronavirus affected the factory

- Some of the production staff and equipment were moved to the new Kubicek Inflatable factory built next door in 2019. This spaced out staff and allowed production to be unhindered while maintaining social distancing.
- Masks had to be worn while in the factory
- All non production staff that could work from home had to work from home.
- Staff that had to look after children or considered high risk were told to stay home on full pay.
